

Contents

Prelude	1
Hello, Hero	1
Terms	3

PART ONE

First Round

1. Motivation	7
The Problem in Brief	7
Put Up or Shut Up	8
Moore's Law Changes the Way People Are Valued	9
Essential but Worthless	11
The Beach at the Edge of Moore's Law	12
The Price of Heaven	13
The Problem Is Not the Technology, but the Way We Think About the Technology	15
Saving the Winners from Themselves	16
Progress Is Compulsory	17
Progress Is Never Free of Politics	17
Back to the Beach	18
2. A Simple Idea	19
Just Blurt the Idea Out	19
A Simple Example	19
Big Talk, I Know . . .	21

Contents

FIRST INTERLUDE: ANCIENT ANTICIPATION OF THE SINGULARITY	22
Aristotle Frets	22
Do People Deserve to Be Paid if They Aren't Miserable?	23
The Plot	24

PART TWO

The Cybernetic Tempest

3. Money as Seen Through One Computer Scientist's Eyes	29
Money, God, and the Old Technology of Forgetting	29
The Information Technology of Optimism	32
4. The Ad Hoc Construction of Mass Dignity	37
Are Middle Classes Natural?	37
Two Familiar Distributions	38
Tweaks to Network Design Can Change Distributions of Outcomes	40
Letting Bell Curves Be Bell Curves	41
Star-Systems Starve Themselves; Bell Curves Renew Themselves	42
An Artificial Bell Curve Made of Levees	43
The Senseless Ideal of a Perfectly Pure Market	45
Income Is Different from Wealth	46
The Taste of Politics	47
Drove My Chevy to the Levee but the Levee Was Dry	49
How Is Music like a Mortgage?	50
5. "Siren Servers"	53
There Can't Be Complexity Without Ambiguity	53
A First Pass at a Definition	54
Where Sirens Beckon	56
6. The Specter of the Perfect Investment	59
Our Free Lunch	59
Candy	60

Contents

Radiant Risk	61
You Can't See as Much of the Server as It Can See of You	63
Waiting for Robin Hood	64
From Autocollate to Autocollude	65
Rupture	66
7. Some Pioneering Siren Servers	69
My Little Window	69
Wal-Mart Considered as Software	70
From the Supply Chain's Point of View	71
From the Customer's Point of View	72
Financial Siren Servers	74
SECOND INTERLUDE (A PARODY): IF LIFE GIVES YOU EULAS, MAKE LEMONADE	79

PART THREE

How This Century Might Unfold, from Two Points of View

---

8. From Below: Mass Unemployment Events	85
Will There Be Manufacturing Jobs?	85
Napsterizing the Teamsters	90
Flattening the City on a Hill	92
Factoring the City on a Hill	94
Education in the Abstract Is Not Enough	95
The Robotic Bedpan	97
A Pharma Fable That Might Unfold Later in This Century	100
9. From Above: Misusing Big Data to Become Ridiculous	107
Three Nerds Walk into a Bar . . .	107
Your Lack of Privacy Is Someone Else's Wealth	108
Big Data in Science	109
A Method in Waiting	112

Contents

Wise or Feared?	113
The Nature of Big Data Defies Intuition	114
The Problem with Magic	115
Game On	116
The Kicker	117
The Nature of Our Confusion	120
The Most Elite Naïveté	122
THIRD INTERLUDE: MODERNITY CONCEIVES THE FUTURE	123
Mapping Out Where the Conversation Can Go	123
Nine Dismal Humors of Futurism, and a Hopeful One	124
Meaning as Nostalgia	129
Can We Handle Our Own Power?	132
The First High-Tech Writer	134
Meaning in Struggle	137
Practical Optimism	138

---

PART FOUR

Markets, Energy Landscapes, and Narcissism

10. Markets and Energy Landscapes	143
The Technology of Ambient Cheating	143
Imaginary Landscapes in the Clouds	144
Markets as Landscapes	147
Experimentalism and Popular Perception	148
Keynes Considered as a Big Data Pioneer	151
11. Narcissism	153
The Insanity of the Local/Global Flip	153
Siren Servers Think the World Is All About Them	154
FOURTH INTERLUDE: LIMITS ARE FOR MUGGLES	157
The Endless Conversation About the Heart Cartel	157
The Deadly Risk of Not Being a Shapeshifter	158

Contents

The First Musical "Any"	159
Climb Any "Any"	162

PART FIVE

The Contest to Be Most Meta

12. Story Lost	165
Not All Is Chaos	165
The Conservation of Free Will	166
13. Coercion on Autopilot: Specialized Network Effects	169
Rewarding and Punishing Network Effects	169
For Every Carrot a Stick	170
Denial of Service	171
Arm's-Length Blackmail	172
Who's the Customer and Who Are All Those Other People?	173
14. Obscuring the Human Element	175
Noticing the New Order	175
Who Orders the Data?	176
The Human Shell Game	177
15. Story Found	179
The First Act Is Autocatalytic	179
Since You Asked	180
Why the Networked World Seems Chaotic	180
When Are Siren Servers Monopolies?	181
Free Rise	182
Make Others Pay for Entropy	183
Bills Are Boring	184
Coattails	185
The Closing Act	187
Stories Are Nothing Without Ideas	188

Contents

FIFTH INTERLUDE: THE WISE OLD MAN IN THE CLOUDS	190
The Limits of Emergence as an Explanation	190
The Global Triumph of Turing's Humor	191
Digital and Pre-digital Theocracy	194
What Is Experience?	195

PART SIX

Democracy

16. Complaint Is Not Enough	199
Governments Are Learning the Tricks of Siren Servers	199
Alienating the Global Village	201
Electoral Siren Servers	202
Maybe the Way We Complain Is Part of the Problem	204
17. Clout Must Underlie Rights, if Rights Are to Persist	205
Melodramas Are Tenacious	205
Emphasizing the Middle Class Is in the Interests of Everyone	208
A Better Peak Waiting to Be Discovered	209

SIXTH INTERLUDE: THE POCKET PROTECTOR IN THE SAFFRON ROBE

	211
The Most Ancient Marketing	211
Monks and Nerds (or, Chip Monks)	213
It's All About I	215
"Abundance" Evolves	217
Childhood and Apocalypse	218

PART SEVEN

Ted Nelson

18. First Thought, Best Thought	221
First Thought	221
Best Thought	223

Contents

The Right to Mash-up Is Not the Same as the Right to Copy	224
Two-Way Links	227
Why Isn't Ted Better Known?	228

PART EIGHT

The Dirty Pictures (or, Nuts and Bolts: What a Humanistic Alternative Might Be Like)

19. The Project	233
You Can't Tweet This	233
A Less Ambitious Approach to Be Discouraged	234
A Sustainable Information Economy	235
A Better Beach	236
20. We Need to Do Better than Ad Hoc Levees	239
Keep It Smooth	239
Not Enough Money Grows on Trees	241
21. Some First Principles	245
Provenance	245
Commercial Symmetry	246
Only First-Class Citizens	248
Eschewing Zombie Siren Servers	249
Only First-Class Identity	251
22. Who Will Do What?	253
Biological Realism	253
The Psychology of Deserving	254
But Will There Be Enough Value from People?	257
A Question That Really Isn't That Hard to Answer	259
Nothing More to Offer?	261
To the Dead Their Due	263
23. Big Business	265
What Will Big Companies Do?	265
The Role of Advertising	266

Contents

24. How Will We Earn and Spend?	269
When Will Decisions Be Made?	269
Dynamic Value	271
Earning a Little Money by Living Well or Interestingly	274
25. Risk	277
The Cost of Risk	277
Risk Never Really Goes Away	279
Puddle, Lake, or Ocean?	280
26. Financial Identity	283
Economic Avatars	283
Economic Avatars as an Improvement on the Forgetfulness of Cash	284
Interpersonal Economic Symmetry Through Theatrics	285
Economic Network Neutrality	286
Symmetry as a Disincentive to Game the System	287
Faith and Credit	288
Tax	289
27. Inclusion	291
The Lower Half of the Curve	291
The Lowly Tail of the Curve	292
Wealth and Civility	293
28. The Interface to Reality	295
How Great Are Our Powers?	295
Waiting for Technology Waiting for Politics	295
What Can We Do About Big Data and the Reality Problem?	297
Carbon Copies Ruin Carbon Credits	298
How Fighting "Fraud" Might Also Fight "Scams"	299
Feeding the Frenetic Mind of the Networked Person	301
It's All in the Timing	301
The Treachery of Toys	302
29. Creepy	305
Three Pervasive Creepy Conundrums	305

Contents

A Hacker's Paradise	306
Creepiness Thrives on the Quest for Utopia	308
Once Upon a Time I Hoped to Wish Paranoia Away	309
The 'Net Is Watching	309
Some Good Reasons to Be Tracked by the Cloud	311
The Creepiness Is Not in the Tech, but in the Power We Grant to Siren Servers	314
Maslow's Pyramid of Blackmail	315
The Weird Logic of Extreme Creepiness	315
30. A Stab at Mitigating Creepiness	317
Commercial Rights Scale Online Where Civil Rights Don't	317
Commercial Rights Are Actionable	319
The Ideal Price of Information Equals the Minimization of Creepiness	321
Individual Players Will Also Be Motivated to Set Prices to Minimize Creepiness	322
SEVENTH INTERLUDE: LIMITS ARE FOR MORTALS	325
From Social Network to Immortality	325
Supernatural Temptations in Tech Culture	327
Just for the Record, Why I Make Fun of the University	328
Will the Control of Death Be a Conversation or a Conflagration?	329
The Two Tiers of Immortality Planned for This Century	330
PART NINE
Transition
31. The Transition	335
Can There Be a Digital Golden Rule?	335
The Miracle's Gauntlet	336
Avatars and Credit	337
The Price of Antenimbosia	338

Contents

32. Leadership	341
Audition for the Lead	341
A Thousand Geeks	342
Startups	343
Traditional Governments, Central Banks, etc.	345
Multiplicities of Siren Servers	346
Facebook or Similar	347
Confederacies of Just a Few Giant Siren Servers	348
EIGHTH INTERLUDE: THE FATE OF BOOKS	352
Books Inspire Maniacal Scheming	352
An Author's Experience of a Book	352
It's Not About Paper Versus eBooks	353
The Book as Silicon Valley Would Have It	354
What Is It About a Book That Is Worth Saving?	358
Conclusion: What Is to Be Remembered?	361
All This, Just for the Whiff of Possibility	361
<hr/>
The Economics of the Future Is User Interface Design	362
The Tease of the Tease	363
Know Your Poison	364
Is There a Test for Whether an Information Economy Is Humanistic?	365
Back to the Beach	366
Appendix: First Appearances of Key Terms	369
Acknowledgments	370
Notes	371
Index	376